

T U E S D A Y, NOVEMBER 19, 1771.

From the HIBERNIAN JOURNAL of July 29.
LONDON, July 18, 1771.
To His Excellency George, Lord Viscount Townshend, Lord Lieutenant
General, and General Governor of IRELAND.

My Lord,
THE distress of Ireland—and let it not surprize your Excellency—must soon excite the general attention. The disorder of England, like the plague, is become infectious. Even the performing quarantine will be found ineffectual to remove it. There is a certain something peculiar in this disease that requires a very forcible expedient: And, it may be, that the King's Evil, however stubborn in its nature, may be considered as the more bearable and consolatory of the two. It requires no great skill to penetrate into the nature of this disorder, and yet it is surprising how the ministry affect to be innocent of the cause: You, my Lord, excepted in the list—an innocent indeed! It was only to guess at their affection, and your innocuous disposition, when, like vultures, they fed on the vitals, the bestowing powers of the demi-foreign. They strip you of your plumage, and left you only the simple reflection of a shadow. I speak now, and I speak plainly—of your impotence in office. I wish you not to mistake me. The hungry Justice, the inferior Magistrates will support their dignity. They have a certain right—they appoint, and they remove. The constitution hath invested them with this power; but no constitution, I beg pardon, no minister, it seems, hath favoured you. The wisdom of his Majesty's Counsellors, be assured, my Lord, was sufficient to fix their favours nearer home. It is enough to assert the consultation of the Earl of Bute (for where this gentleman is consulted the nation must suffer) and it will suffice to say, that through his interest alone you became the dupe of power. The ministry were anxious for the event—it was impossible to deny them satisfaction.

The Irish nation have since beheld you in the meridian of your power. Like the emblem of a modern Courtier you have shone with a false light; and it is amazing with what avidity you have embraced the measures of your honoured and beloved patron. You was no longer the free agent. Previous to your appointment it was evident that all power had been taken from you. The hearts of the people, with your annual income, were all you had to expect. Could you have kept the former, you might have been happy. But you was doomed to disgrace. You immediately became inspired with the true courtly principles of despotism and tyranny. In your new station, it was your wish to be singular and your pride to be distinguished. Your lust for honour and reputation—and it is very unfortunate—has, from its first glimpse, been damned either by cowardice or interest. It is confessed you have some abilities, and that those abilities have been cramped by corruption. How great the fall of merit is! But it is more than probable that you were forced into measures; and it may be urged, That Lord Townshend was the only man who would accept the title of General Governor on the terms proposed. It may be so. But, if that be granted, what satisfaction, my Lord, could you expect? I argue now in a rational manner. Even his Majesty might as reasonably be said to possess the hearts, and expect the oaths of his people, by following the advice of his iniquitous court, as you to derive, on such terms, either fame, honour, or popularity. But both the King, and his good representatives—indeed I am sorry to observe it—are lost in the labyrinth of ministerial iniquity. The weakness of the one naturally implies a want of strength in the other.

My Lord, it is scarcely possible that I should be mistaken in this conjecture; at least if I do mistake, it is with some degree of credit; the voice of the people in two kingdoms join me. [I designedly omit the northern clime.] And I am informed the Irish begin to see and understand the political compass; they are sensible that the bankrupt state of their Treasury can only be equalled by that of our own. The mode of administration here and there is the same. Oppression creeps in with every measure. The ghost of power is the universal phantom of state. Promises are as religiously broken by the Lord Lieutenant, as they are by the Duke of Grafton, or, if you please, the King. But reiterated insults seldom go unpunished. And though our ministry imagine themselves safe at a distance, yet you, my Lord, may feel the vengeance of the people. Distress and poverty have many hands. A wise man would move with peculiar heed, and step forward with the greatest caution. The time is drawing near when some minister must be offered up a public sacrifice. I advise you, my Lord, to beware. You have made yourself disgusting to your dearest friends, and I am in doubt whether you are not the Judas of Ireland. You have eaten of the political sup, betrayed your sovereign, sacrificed your dependents, and oppressed the people. Other pens have delineated the particular how transactions of your Excellency with more precision than I am able at this distance. I only know the mode of your appointment, the manner you have misrepresnted the state of affairs in Ireland, and the situation you are in at this moment; and believe me, my Lord, it is sufficiently critical. A judgment in this case is easily formed. When the King is misled by his favourite, and the favourite himself becomes unhappy, his creatures must feel, if not for others, for themselves. It is as impossible for the first minister of state to be tranquil and easy, with the vengeance of a free people staring him in the face, as it is for your Lordship to be convinced of your error. I wish conviction may not come too late. It is notorious, that the men who were anxious for your appointment, were ever anxious for the destruction of this nation. It is of little importance to the public who are originally the men most active in the dirty business, provided those men are known who do the mischief. Partiality will be out of the case where a whole people try the offence. A few may mistake; but when the general eye is open, when the balance is once tried, justice must follow. Your worthy secretary too, Sir George Macartney, no doubt has his feelings. Led into that office by the same corrupt influence with your Excellency, he remains the steadfast slave of power. But it is probable your interest in Ireland may elude. The one may assume on the ground of title; the other on that of power. The secretary may be superior. But I speak this with diffidence. I conjecture from mere probability. He is the son-in-law of Lord Bute, your Excellency only his nominal agent. There is some difference; and, if we may reason on the point, we must decide in favour of the former. My Lord, it would be unpardonable in me, and inconsistent with a man of my professed principles, to be found guilty of deception. Hitherto I have spoken with freedom; and I wish, out of compassion to your Excellency, to inform you of the treachery of your professed friends. The truth may be unpalatable. To turn the path of infamy and wretchedness may give you pain. But I wish to inform and advise. Your Lordship is not the man they wish to continue as Chief Governor of Ireland. How unfortunate it is that the wretched, whom they have duped into a compliance with their measures should thus be rewarded! But, indeed, my Lord, it is not foreign from their first design. You unhappily caught at the bait; you swallowed the delicious flavoured morsel, and now you must feel the effect. To penetrate into the design of our ministry, on this side the water, would be difficult. Yet it is certain, that another slave, at least another Lord Lieutenant, is now wanting. Bad men, when they would maintain a bad cause, need great assistance; and had must their cause be, when among all our wicked, needy, prostituted Junco, not one of them will accept the prize on your terms!

How your Excellency will maintain your post, with safety to yourself, in your present situation, cannot be imagined. Will your Lordship face the meeting of parliament? Will you venture to ask the needful supplies? In the midst of this dilemma there must be raised; and yet how great, how stubborn is the opposition? The storm gathers blackness as we approach. The great offence committed against parliament, through your side, will not be forgot. Indeed, so melancholy is your case, were it possible for me to pity you, after all your delusion, could I forget your crimes, and set aside the common interest of my fellow-subjects, here I could open my heart,—here I could bestow my compassion. But you flinched with your eyes open. Conviction spread itself through every base and wicked proposal, and you wilfully swam against the stream. Your Excellency—and I may venture to engage it—will find the Irish not totally lost to interest, consequence, and liberty, however little you may be supposed to have left them. The sparks of resentment will kindle; and it will be happy for you, if they kindle not to your destruction. Rouse then in time from your infatigability; and, while it is in your power, resent the usage you have so basely received. For once assume the spirit of a man, even if you have it not. Apologize for your past conduct; and endeavour to remove the just prejudices of the Irish against you, by frankly acknowledging your errors. You will not have time, in your present capacity, to convince them by your actions. Prepare for the hour of the most severe trial, should you be so unhappy as to meet an incensed majority. I mention this, because it may probably be the case. The power of your adored friends will decrease in proportion to the enormity of their offences, and it will be political in you to be prepared. While others are endeavouring to prostitute their talents to the worst of purposes; while the first, and the most wicked men in the state, are racking their tortured senses to deceive the King, be it your business, my Lord, to retire and reform. No longer suffer yourself to be their tool; but, with a virtuous fortitude resolve against every measure distresting to the subject; and, when once resolved, be firm. This will raise you in the esteem of every lover of his country. The other must bring you to disgrace, infamy, and destruction.

THURSDAY the Lord-Mayor entertained ----- Sutton, Esq; Secretary to the Earl of Rochford, at the Mansion-house; some time after dinner, the man who is confined in a spunging-house in Wood-street, and has made some discoveries relative to the fire in the dock-yard, at Portsmouth, was sent for and examined before his Lordship, Aldermen Trecothick and Kennet. It was expected to be late before the examination would be finished. It was reported the man had signified that he expects good, on giving full evidence in the affair.-----The whole depositions have been sent to the Secretaries of State.

Extract of a Letter from the Hague, August 30.
According to the last letters from Vienna, that Court expects in a few days the final answer of the Court of Petersburg to the ultimatum sent thither by the former, upon the important subject of a peace between Russia and the Ottoman Porte. Though the terms of this ultimatum are not precisely known, it is thought that the Court of Vienna doth not insist upon Crimea being declared an independent country; but requires that the Principalitys of Moldavia and Wallachia be given to a neutral Prince, who may equally espouse the interests of both the Imperial Courts.

SEPTEMBER 7. The examination of the person on Thursday night, relative to the fire in Portsmouth dock-yard, before the Lord-Mayor, Aldermen Trecothick and Kennet, at which was present the Secretary to the Earl of Rochford, lasted a considerable time, but the man made no discoveries of any consequence; he asserted, that he was blindfolded, and led to the place by a certain Captain, whom he could produce, if he was sent to Portsmouth: He was told, that if he had any discoveries to make, by which the affair could be brought to light, so that the persons concerned might be convicted thereof, he should not only be admitted as evidence, but have all his debts paid, which, it is said, amount to 1000 l. He replied that he expected something more; but he was informed that his request could not then be positively granted. He gave no very satisfactory answers to any of the questions asked him; upon which the Lord-Mayor ordered him into another room, with the Officer in whose custody he was, till his Lordship, and the gentlemen above-mentioned, had consulted how they should proceed in the business. In the mean time he was allowed some wine in the room to which he was sent, where he drank plentifully, and smoked his pipe, till ten o'clock at night; by which time every thing being settled with regard to the debt he was arrested for, and also what he had contracted in the spunging-house for eating, drinking, &c. which score it is said amounted to about 20 l. A Messenger with his assistants came and took him from the Mansion-house, and set off immediately with him for Portsmouth, to see if he can make the discoveries there which he asserted he can.

A bold and spirited remonstrance, it is said, is preparing for the appropriation of the Livery on Michaelmas-day next; and, if it should be approved, Mr. Wilkes is determined to go up to St. James's, to know his Majesty's pleasure when he will receive it. The prospect of an East-India war is so strong, that Hayder Ali has lodged 1,000,000 pagodas with a merchant at Fort St. George, to purchase the assistance of the English company.

Extract of a Letter from Leghorn, August 14.
We have received here, by letters from Aleppo, dated June 11, a confirmation that Ali Bey, the new Sultan of Egypt, after having defeated, in the environs of Damas, five Turkish Pashas, and their troops, made himself master of that city. The last advices from Constantinople import, that the news of the above defeat had occasioned a general consternation; and that the Porte is very desirous of making peace with the Russians, in order to attack the usurper the more effectually.

Extract of a Letter from Venice, August 15.
According to advices from Macedonia, the Russians block up the passage of the Dardanelles in such a manner, that no ship can pass or repass without being visited; so that the four gallies which the Captain Pacha had sent to the Archipelago, to raise part of the tributes, are given over for lost.

Extract of a Letter from Aleppo, in Syria, June 6.
A courier arrived here this morning from Ali Bey's army, to bring the Chick Daher advices of the defeat of the Turkish army, which defended Damascus, confining by some accounts of 21,000 men, and by others of 24,000. The three Pashas who commanded them, killed out in the morning of the 4th instant. Ali Bey's troops immediately attacked them fabre in hand, and routed the whole army, after a feeble resistance. The Pacha of Tripoli was thrown from his horse by a mortal wound he received in his thigh. This account was sent by Ali Daher to the Chick Daher his father, from the field of battle. He adds, that the victorious army is preparing to enter Damascus: This town lies open, and its castle, which was built by the Califfs, is not able to hold out long.

Extract of a Letter from London, September 9.

Advices from Warsaw by this day's mail, inform that the Russians are in actual possession of all the fortresses and ports belonging to the Crimea, and of the island of Taman. The Sultan Selim Guery hath likewise submitted to the Empire of Russia, and hath sent two of his sons with 48 deputies from Tartary to Petersburg, to take the oaths, and to do homage to her Imperial Majesty. This intelligence is so authentic, that even the Confederates do not doubt it.

Letters from Petersburg of the 9th ult. give an account, that Lieutenant General Totleben has lately arrived there from Asia, and has been most graciously received by her Imperial Majesty. This General has, in the space of two campaigns, and with a small army, not only subjected to the Empire of Russia, the kingdom of Georgia, Mingrelia, and Churlia, but taken possession of almost all the Ottoman fortresses, even to Travend, ravaged the country, and carried off large quantities of artillery.

A new treaty of guarantee is just concluded between the Courts of Berlin and Petersburg.

St. JAMES'S, September 7. His Majesty has been pleased to appoint Charles Murray, Esq; to be Agent and Consul General in the Islands of Madagas, on the resignation of Thomas Chesp, Esquire.

PROPOSALS

For PRINTING by SUBSCRIPTION,
A WEEKLY NEWS-PAPER, ENTITLED, THE PENNSYLVANIA PACKET, AND
GENERAL ADVERTISER.

INSTRUCTION or AMUSEMENT are the points aimed at by Writers of every denomination, in whatever sphere they move, or whatever rank they hold in the literary world. Under one or other of these classes, the productions of every Author may be arranged. But as the generality are not at leisure to make themselves masters of any one branch of learning, which can properly be filled a science, much less to comprehend the whole body of literature, with all its various revolutions and improvements; the grand object is, to reduce these matters into a small compass, and to exhibit them to the attention of the public in as close a view as possible. He that succeeds in performing this task, certainly discharges an agreeable, if not a very useful, office. It is for this reason, perhaps, that the modern News-papers, published upon the present improved plan, meet with more universal perusal than the voluminous works of the laborious learned, though of infinitely superior merit, and as speakably higher importance.

With a view of contributing, in one and the same effort, to both these desirable ends of KNOWLEDGE and PLEASURE, the Subscriber requests the indulgent attention of the Public in general, and his Friends in particular, while he offers to their candid consideration the following CONDITIONS.

I. THE PENNSYLVANIA PACKET, and GENERAL ADVERTISER, shall be printed with elegant Types, properly adapted to the various articles of which it may consist; and on Paper, equal in quality and size to any News-paper published in this city.

IT is reported that Irish officers have been given to the Messengers and his Affiliates, who set out with Dudley from the Banquet-House to Portsmouth on Friday last, in order to his discovery of some of the parties concerned in setting the Dock Yard on fire, to keep a very strict watch over him, that he may not escape them, which is much suspected.

Till the Government of Bengal undergoes some salutary regulation, the Affairs of the East-India Company must be in a constant state of confusion; it being the interest of their servants to excite dissensions among the Asiatic Princes of their several provinces, as in that case they are extravagantly paid for assisting on either side.

Letters from Brest say, that some hundreds of the English ship-builders, who were employed in the King's yard there, are ordered to Toulon, to expedite the fitting out of some men of war said to be destined for the French settlements in North-America.

As the French, through real necessity, have been obliged to disband a considerable part of their army, it is generally thought that some of our patriots will, at the meeting of Parliament, propose a proportionable lowering of our military; as one great argument always brought by the Ministry is, the necessity of keeping up a number of troops equal to our rivals.

The plan for a coalition, now on the carpet, is asserted to be under the direction of the Lords Camden, Northington, and Chesterfield.

There are no less than twenty-five causes now depending in Doctors' Commons, for adultery and criminal conversation, in order to obtain divorces, and most of them between the great people at the west end of the town. There have not been so many causes of that kind brought into the ecclesiastical Court for fifty years before.

Extract of a Letter from Stockholm, August 20.

"The Secret Committee have explained their sentiments on the subject of the Dictamen in a manner very satisfactory to the King: They have declared that it never was their intention to reflect upon the memory of the late King, or offend his Majesty upon the Throne; that what had been done wrong in the expedition of the State, proceeded merely from a misunderstanding, and that they left it to his Majesty to draw up in such terms as he should judge proper the Diploma for the re-admission of the Senator who had been deposed.

"The Counsellors of State having examined the explication of the Secret Committee, it was unanimously approved by the four Orders. Then it was signified to them that the King had fixed upon the 24th of next month for his Coronation.

"The King has ratified and signed the Diplomas for the re-admission of the Senators Count d'Horn and Baron d'Agabekke."

SEPTEMBER 11. The Parliament of Ireland will meet on the 8th of next month.

According to letters from Peterburgh, the Ottoman Porte, in order to accelerate the treaty of peace with her Imperial Majesty, had made fresh proposals, which were judged of so advantageous a nature, that a speedy end will be put to the war.

Notwithstanding the supineness of this nation with respect to the insults the receives from Portugal, and which she overlooks, on a supposition that the Portuguese trade continues to be, what it was formerly estimated, near half a million in our favour, nothing is more certain than that the schemes of the Conde de Oeyras has cut off all the advantages which once resulted from the traffic in question; and if we recollect the expence incurred by supporting his most Faithful Majesty during the last war; if we remember how much that alliance tended to accelerate the peace, and consider, above all things, how it operated in clogging the conditions, we possibly shall have reason, for centuries, to lament the fatality of our Lusitanian connections.

It is mentioned highly to the honour of Choiseul, the late Minister of France, that he had several men of the first rate abilities constantly employed in considering the danger or the utility of all public measures, that such only might be adopted as were evidently beneficial to his country.

Extract of a Letter from Paris, dated September 3.

"The sudden arrival in this city from London of Count de Guignes, threw us all into a surprise, imagining some very great and important matters were upon the carpet; and what confirmed us in this opinion the more, a council was immediately held, and before it broke up dispatches were sent to every sea port in this kingdom, from which it is conjectured that a war is near at hand. We have likewise learned, that another reason for the Count's sudden appearance here, is on account of some very important discoveries being made in London, with regard to the fire at Portsmouth, not at all to the honour of the French. As soon as the council broke up, expresses were sent to Spain and Portugal on some extraordinary affairs, which time can only discover, as every one who is about the court is quite silent as to what has passed there, and are so very reserved in conversation, that they will not enter upon any state or political matters. However, this we are certain of, that unless France is assisted by Spain and Portugal, and the Dutch supplies them with money, the finances are so low, that they will not be able to carry on a war one year; but it is said that nothing will be done till the return of the couriers from Spain and Portugal."

Orders are sent to Chatham for equipping a fleet of five ships immediately, three of which are to be of the line. Their destination is as yet a profound secret.

Three millions of six-dollars are now negotiating among the merchants at Amsterdam for the use of the French King.

Orders are given for taking up two vessels of 250 tons each, in Government service, for exporting salt provisions to his Majesty's garrisons at Gibraltar and Minorca.

It further says, that Councils are daily held, and that Count de Guignes is present at all of them.

A Commission has passed the Great Seal, for appointing Paulus Emilius Irving, Lieutenant-Governor of Guernsey.

Amongst the curiosities brought home by Mrs. Banks and Dr. Solander, there is some hemp-seed of a new species, which is reckoned to be twice the strength of any other yet discovered, and as it grows in a dry light soil, it promises to be of the greatest utility to our agriculture and navigation. They propose sowing again in about six months hence, in order to make a settlement in St. George's Isle, and in quest of new discoveries. It is said they are to go round by the East-Indies in place of Cape-Horn.

SEPTEMBER 19. The last letters from Fort St. David's in the East-Indies mention, that some additional works were adding to the fortifications of that place, so as to render it impregnable from the attack of any foreign power whatever.

By private letters from Sweden we learn, that under the auspices of their young King the most spirited preparations are making, as it is supposed, for some very important stroke; but as his Counsellors are possessed of that uncommon virtue for Courtiers, Secrecy, not an iota of their schemes has yet transpired.

SEPTEMBER 21. It is said, some additional forts are ordered to be built on the North Coast of Ireland.

Private letters from Hamburg mention, that the States General have given orders for all the barrier towns belonging to that Republic to be constantly garrisoned, and all the works put in a posture of defence.

A Gentleman has received letters from Spain, which mention that it is a general talk there, that the whole force of the Court of Madrid will very shortly be employed against the Russians; if so, it is impossible that England can long preserve her neutrality.

It is said, that the Spaniards have got 30 ships of the line at Cadiz, 16 of which are ready for sea, and completely manned.

Extract of a Letter from Venice, August 24.

"They write from Corfu, that a Turkish fleet, consisting of 56 sail, came out of the Dardanelles by order of the Grand Signior, and that Rear Admiral Arf, who cruised with his Squadron thereabout, having met them, affected to shun them, till he had drawn them out upon the high sea; then facing about, he attacked them with such impetuosity, that the astonished Turks betook themselves to flight, and saved themselves in the harbour of Modrin, at Lemnos, where they erected batteries on shore, in order to defend the entrance of the Port. Rear Admiral Arf, who was not strong enough to force the entrance, blocked up the mouth of it, in order to hinder the Turks from escaping, while he sent for succours, and Admiral Spiridoff, upon the first notice, flew immediately to join him. They then set on shore 1500 Albanians; who, with surprising bravery, took the Turkish batteries, so that our ships entered the harbour without any resistance, and burned the whole Turkish fleet, except only four caravells, which have been saved, and fell into the hands of the victors. This affair happened on the 9th of July last."

His Majesty's Sloop Bonetta, Captain Squire, is arrived at Turks-Island, from this Port.

Tuesday last was launched at Hobcaw, a fine Ship, called the New-Carolina Packet, intended for the London Trade, built by Messrs. Begbie and Manson, is esteemed as fine a Vessel as ever was built in this Province, and to be commanded by Captain William White.

Thursday last the new Brig Betsey, Capt. Schermerhorn, arrived here from New-York, in whom came Mr. William Marshall, of this Town, Mr. Joseph Marichalk, of New-York, John Cary, Esq; Attorney at Law, from New-Jersey, to settle here; and upwards of twenty other Passengers.

The same Day Rowland Rugeley, Esq; returned here from London, in the Montagu, Captain Pickles.

Between Nine and Ten o'Clock the same Night, we had here a severe Storm of Thunder and Lightning, one Clap of which struck the Dwelling-House of Henry Laurens, Esq; in Ansonborough, now occupied by his Brother Mr. James Laurens, Merchant, and Family. The Lightning came down by the Chimney on the North Side of the House, as also at two of the North Windows, and damaged six Rooms, two of which were shattered very much, and most of the Furniture, &c. in them greatly injured; it then seems to have passed off through the Cellar, melting in its Way several Pewter Plates, and doing other Damage. Ten of Mr. Laurens's Family were in the House at the Time it was struck, yet, through Divine Goodness, not one of them received the least Hurt; but a Negro Wench in the Kitchen had her Arm burnt by the Lightning, and the other Negroes there seem to have felt the Shock as sensibly as the People did in the House, tho' the Kitchen received no Damage.

Saturday last the Ship Beaufain, Daniel Curling, Master, arrived here from London, in whom came Passengers John Fawcett, Esq; (lately appointed one of the Assistant Judges for this Province) and Lady, Mr. Arthur Downes, Mr. Robert Mackenzie, jun. Mr. Kinley, Mr. Hamilton, Miss Johnston, and sundry others.

Sunday last the Sloop St. George, George Judkin, Master, arrived here from Bermuda, in whom came Passenger, Colonel Robert Rivers, of James Island.

SUBSCRIPTIONS are gratefully received by the Publisher, ROBERT BELL, Bookseller, at the late Union Library, in Third-street, Philadelphia; and by all the Printers and Booksellers in New-York, Boston, Philadelphia, Charles-Town, &c. &c. &c.

To the PUBLIC.

THE Inhabitants of this Continent have now an easy and advantageous Opportunity of effectually establishing literary Manufactures in the British Colonies, at moderate Prices, calculated for this Meridian, which will absolutely and eventually produce mental Improvement, and commercial Expansion, with the additional Recommendation of positively saving Thousands of Pounds to, and among the Inhabitants of the British Empire in America. Thus, the Importation of One Thousand Sets of Blackstone's Commentaries, manufactured in Europe, at Ten Pounds per Set, is sending very near Ten Thousand Pounds across the great Atlantic Ocean. Whereas, One Thousand Sets, manufactured in America, and sold at the small Price of Three Pounds per Set, is an actual saving of Seven Thousand Pounds to the Purchaser, and the identical Three Thousand Pounds which is laid out for our own Manufactures, is still retained in the Country, being distributed among Manufacturers and Traders, whose Residence upon the Continent, of course circulates the Money to circulate from Neighbour to Neighbour; and by this Circulation in America, there is a great Probability of its revolving in the very Hands from which it originally migrated.

Gentlemen, who at this juncture, retain any Degree of that ancient and noble, but now almost exploded Affection, denominated Patriotism, and are pleased to exemplify it by extending with Generosity their auspicious Patronage through the cheap Mode of reposing their Names and Residences (no Money expected until the Delivery of an Equivalent) with any Printer or Bookseller on the Continent, as intentional Purchasers of any of this Work now Re-printing by Subscription in America, will render an essential Service to the Community, by encouraging native Manufactures, and therefore deserve to be had in grateful Remembrance by their Country, by Posterity, and by their much obliged humble Servant, the Publisher.

ROBERT BELL.

Whoever inclines to become a purchaser, for both or either of the above plantations, may treat at the Round O, with

Now in the Press, and will soon be published,

By HENRY MILLER,

Printer, in Race street, Philadelphia.

A complete German Grammar, in two Parts.

THE First Part, containing true, plain, and easy Instructions for acquiring fundamentally, in a short Time, the Knowledge and Use, both in speaking and writing the GERMAN TONGUE.—The Second Part is enriched with familiar Words, Phrases, peculiar Expressions, proverbial Sentences and Dialogues. To which are added, for further Application, several Pieces of News, Letters, and some moral Pieces, both in Prose and Verse: Together with an ample Vocabulary, in Alphabetical Order. By JOHN JAMES BACHMAIR, M. A. This Grammar needs no other recommendatory Panegyric than to say, that the Author had University Learning, and for a great Number of Years, made the teaching of the English and German Languages, in London, his Profession; in which Time he composed and published this Grammar, as also another for the Germans to learn English; both are universally allowed to be the best that ever were published. They have hitherto been imported from England; but the Book is now, and has been for some Time, out of print, and there is no Probability of its being ever Re-printed in London; wherefore it has been judged necessary to make a new Edition of it in this Country, where it is much wanted.

Since all human Performances are subject to Imperfections, Mr. BACHMAIR's Grammar is not supposed to be Faultless: Wherefore, the present Editor has not only corrected the Errata of the Press, which are found in the London Edition, but also, to render it more perfect, the evident Mistakes which through Inadvertency have escaped the Notice of the Author. The present Edition will also contain some useful and necessary Additions.

July 3, 1771. A new negro fellow, of the Fullah country, cannot tell his own or his master's name; he is 5 feet 5 inches high, red eyed, long beard, a cut behind his left ear, a scar or two on his back, straight limbed, has on an ensnaring shirt and new blanket.
